I have had a melancholy letter from the poor Marfchale de Beauveau. She says she cannot press me to visit " une personne que vous avez laiss6e si heureuse, et que vous trouverez si mis6rable par la perte qu'elle a faite de tout ce qui Fattachait £t la vie. Les autres maux sont supportables; celui-la seul 6te le gout de Fexistence. Je vous remercie beaucoup des nouvelles que vous me donnez de deux personnes qui m'intfressent tant. Recevez Fassurance bien sincere du souvenir que je conserverai toujours de ce terns oil j'ai eu le bonheur de connoitre Madame Swinburne et vous/' &c.

I wish in your next letter you would write me a few lines, which I could cut out and send her.

I am quite melted with her sorrowful letter; " mais tu Fas voulu, George Dandin," "one might say to her.

By all I can learn, poor Le Mattre[1] was guillotined.
